PEDERAL SUPERVISION.

Federal Judge Anderson has decided that the national government representatives and senators in congress are being voted for. Before the fer of perpetual war in Mexico. matter is finally settled, it doubtless will be passed upon by the supreme court, and the probability is that the federal authority will be sustained.

While we dislike the idea of being aubjected to federal interference in our state elections, there is no doubt the statute books. There never was a left hand was a present from union that such interference has in it an jegislative body, the majority of coal miners in the west. element of justice. The house and which devoted its time to playing senate of the United States are sole judges of their membership.

So far, we believe it safe to say that no mun ever has appeared as a contestant for a west in the senate. Several men who have appeared in the senate with certificates of election have been debled or have been expelled, but it required the action of a state legislature to fill the vacancy. It was not antemptically filled, as in the house, by some one who claimed to have been legally elected by the voters of his district.

But we may expect, in the future, the same sort of contests in the senate as have characterized the house in the past, because, under the new law, sengtors and representatives now are efected by the same machinery. The caudidates for the tota must get down into the sawdost and scramble; been compelled to do since the constitution was adopted.

For the opposition there are three strong reasons: First, the ingrained belief that the government should not go into the transportation business in competition with private capital; second, the influence of the American ship owners; third, the fear of statesmen of the caliber of Root and Lodge that Thy government ownership would menace this country with war.

GIVE US GOOD LEGISLATION.

It is to be hoped that the legislature will get down to business and put the legislation really needed on politics, that ever got anywhere, even in playing politics.

Two sessions of the legislature, since statehood, were frittered away. Little was accomplished for the good of the state; much done was positively harmful. The excuse was that the majority could pass nothing over the governor's veto, and the governor made little attempt to meet the majority in a spirit of compromise.

With the experience of two legisla-

THE SIKHS GOOD FIGHTERS.

In several respects the Sikhs, who are with the Indian forces at the front in France and Belgium, form a quitque fighting force. In the first place they fill fully one-third of the rank and file of the native armies in India. Unlike the Gurkhas, however, they do not belong to a single race. There are several types of the Sikhs, the force being divided into chans. the force being divided into clans. There is what is known as the "Khattaries," or "Kshatriyas," clan, con-sisting of representatives of the old military casts of the Hindus. They are not such big men as the "Jats," another Sish cian, consisting of tall, statwart fellows who are a distinct contrast to the Maabis, who are short rather inclined to be stout, and have very dark skin and irregular fea-lling a gun and bayonet. Indeed, it has often been said by military ex-perts that there is no more cool and effective soldier in the world than the Sikh, who takes to drill like a duck takes to water, soon becomes a sharpshooter, and masters the use of the bayonet possibly better than the soldiers of any other nationality. So cold-blooded and invincible, indeed, are they in a bayonet charge that it frightens even the most fearless fighters, who lose their nerve when confronted by the merciless steel in the hands of these dauntiess and determined Indian troops.

Although, however, there are various rucial differences between the class of the Sikhs, there is one link which binds them together, and that is their religion, which is called "Sikhism." Without going into details it may be said that this faith disdains idolatry.
